Can the Foodbank help me??

We would like to find out together with you!

But do you want to get an impression of your eligibility first? You can, if you conduct the following calculation:

1. Add up all income, including allowances (salary, benefit).
2. Add up all expenses (rent, gas, electricity, water).
3. Subtract expenses from income. The number that remains is called the difference.

This difference is important to see whether or not you receive a food package.

Also important is how many people or children you live with in one house.

- If you live alone and the difference is less than € 300 per month, you can receive a package.
- If you live with one person and the difference is less than € 410 per month, you can also receive a package.
- If you live with two other people and the difference is less than € 520,- per month, you can also receive a package.
- If you live with three other people and the difference is less than € 630 per month, you will also receive a package.
- For each additional person, add € 110 per month.

If you would rather do the calculation with us, please call us:
